Dear Friends and Alumni,

We are pleased to share this most recent edition of the INSIDER magazine. You should note from your review that a number of good things have and are continuing to occur at Texas College. To this end, we have experienced enrollment growth, endowment growth, newly renovated buildings, new academic partnerships and updated academic programs and more.

We are also pleased to share that the upcoming spring term will move the College into her 125th Anniversary; this is an exciting time for any institution that has tenure of more than a century. It should be noted that all that has and continues to occur is a result of the goodness of God, who works with and through us. We are also blessed to have alumni and friends who believe in and support the mission and core values of this great institution. And, it is expected that there are many more great things to come!

Thank you in advance for making the 125th year a “special” one with your best financial gifts. We look forward to receiving your generous contribution to assist us as we move forward to provide the best education in the most accommodating facilities available to us for the next 125 years and beyond.

Wishing you the best and may God continue to bless you richly!

Sincerely,

Dwight J. Fennell
President

HBCUs Make America Strong:

THE POSITIVE ECONOMIC IMPACT OF TEXAS COLLEGE

Texas College is a valuable economic engine in its community, generating substantial economic returns year after year. The benefits flow to Texas College's graduates, of course, who'll enter the workforce with sharper skills and vastly enhanced earning prospects. But, as a landmark study commissioned by UNCF—HBCUs Make America Strong: The Positive Economic Impact of Historically Black Colleges and Universities—makes clear, the benefits also flow to the local and regional economies that are connected to Texas College.

The presence of an HBCU means a boost to economic activity, on and off—and even well beyond—campus. Stronger growth. Stronger communities. More jobs. And a more talented workforce.

The study's key findings (based on 2014 data) make a persuasive case:

Total Economic Impact: $25 Million

- Texas College generates $25 million in total economic impact for its local and regional economies. This estimate includes direct spending by Texas College on faculty, employees, academic programs and operations—and by students attending the institution, as well as the follow-on effects of that spending.
- Every dollar spent by Texas College and its students produces positive economic benefits, generating $1.27 in initial and subsequent spending for its local and regional economies. Communities and regions hoping to foster a more robust and diversified economic climate find HBCU-connected spending a critical component of that effort.

Total Employment Impact: 282 Jobs

- Texas College generates 282 jobs for its local and regional economies. Of this total, 139 are on-campus jobs, and 143 are off-campus jobs.
- For each job created on campus, another 1.0 public- or private-sector job is created off campus because of Texas College-related spending.
- Looked at in a different way: Each $1 million initially spent by Texas College and its students creates 15 jobs.

Total Lifetime Earnings for Graduates: $243 Million

- Texas College plays a major role in the economic success of its graduates by enhancing their education, training and leadership skills. A college degree opens the door to economic prosperity through greater employment and earnings potential. In fact, the 101 Texas College graduates in 2014 can expect total earnings of $243 million over their lifetimes—that's 67 percent more than they could expect to earn without their college credentials.
- Or viewed on an individual basis, a Texas College graduate working full time throughout his or her working life can expect to earn $969,000 in additional income due to a college credential.<sup>1</sup>

FALL 2018

Texas College Begins Academic Year

Students attend the first day of courses for the Fall 2018 academic term.

The summer drew to an end for Texas College students as new and transfer students moved in August 15th and returning students arrived on the 18th. With the dorms at maximum capacity, classes began on the 22nd. The campus was full of energy, students were eager to learn, faculty members were excited to teach and staff members were enthusiastic to assist as classes kicked off for the semester. The campus was full and bustling with a very diverse student body engaged in the Texas College experience of intellectual, psychological, social and spiritual development.

Opening School Convocation

Texas College held their Opening School Convocation on Wednesday, September 19, 2018 at 11:00 a.m. in the Gus F. Taylor Gymnasium. This annual formal academic event serves to officially recognize and celebrate the beginning of the academic year, as well as, welcome new students to the Texas College Family. Aligning with the College's mission and faith-based founding, all new students were gifted a Bible from Texas College.

The incoming class of Fall 2018 boasts the largest enrollment seen in recent years, with grade point averages at an all-time high. This sizable class of new students increased enrollment to 1,044 students, the largest experienced under Dr. Fennell's administration. While the record is exciting for the 124-year-old institution, Dr. Fennell raised the bar in his comments, hoping to continue growth to 1,100 students by Spring 2019. The program's platform included President Dwight J. Fennell, his executive cabinet, City of Tyler Councilman Ed Moore, Texas College National Alumni Association President Gwendolyn Collins, SGA President Malcolm Patton, Jr. and Miss Texas College Relicia Morrison. Q'Juan Gray, Senior Buyer for NCH Corporation in Irving, Texas and former TCNAA President, served as the speaker for the occasion.

Dr. Dwight J. Fennell presents Convocation Speaker Q'Juan Gray with a plaque in appreciation for her address and contributions to Texas College.

EMERGING LEADERS PROGRAM

The Emerging Leaders pose for a photograph with Dr. Kent Willis , following his presentation.

Texas College introduced a new program to the campus this fall, the Emerging Leaders Program. On Saturday, September 22nd, 25 students braved a rainy morning to participate in the inaugural Emerging Leadership Forum on the Texas College Campus. The forum officially kicked off the Emerging Leaders Program, which is designed to build leadership skills and inspire students to get involved in the organizations and causes they are passionate about on campus, in the Tyler community, and beyond.

The keynote speaker for 2018's forum was Dr. Kent L. Willis. Willis is an educator, coach and mentor currently serving as Associate Provost for Institutional Effectiveness at The University of Texas Health Science Center at Tyler. He is also active in the community and an alumnus of Leadership Tyler Class 31. With experience in secondary and post-secondary education, his research interests include college and career readiness, as well as school-based health promotion and education policy. Actively involved in research and scholarship, he serves as a reviewer for academic journals published by the National Council of Professors of Educational Administration (NCPEA) and the Collaborative Educational Programs for the Americas (CEPA).

Dr. Willis encouraged the student leaders to become the difference they want to see in the world. He reminded them that leadership is not an easy task and that they must align themselves with people who continually strive for excellence. The students were also allowed to ask Dr. Willis questions and seek advice on how to become more effective and efficient leaders

Students listen intently to Dr. Willis' presentation.

TEXAS COLLEGE GIVES BACK

Students Provide Thanksgiving Meals

On Monday, November 19, 2018 a host of student organizations banded together to help give back to the Tyler community for Thanksgiving. The College hosted a food drive in hopes to feed families in need for the holiday. Organized by the Office of Student Affairs, the College was able to feed a full traditional Thanksgiving meal to 100 different families in need. Inclusive of those families were senior citizens unable to leave home to retrieve the meal; thus, the students delivered the meals themselves. Community Service being one of the six core values of Texas College, the students felt it necessary to give back to the community and to those in need. Senior Education Major Dennis Cooper, said “It’s truly a blessing to be able to give back to the community, specifically those in need. Thanksgiving allows one to reflect on all of the things to be thankful for, and that includes food. Not everyone has the luxury of knowing where their next meal is coming from, much less a traditional Thanksgiving meal. That being said, I’m just happy that we were able to help out during this holiday season.”

The meals were delivered or made available for pickup in the McKinney Hall Connector, prior to the school’s closure for the Thanksgiving break.

Miss Texas College Helps Bring Holiday Cheer

Miss Texas College, Relicia Morrison, speaks at the Tree Filled with Angels program before presenting the gifts from Texas College.

On Wednesday, December 5, 2018 Miss Texas College, Relicia Morrison, began a new tradition on the 124-year-old campus, the Tree Filled with Angels. “This program is the beginning of a new tradition for future Miss Texas Colleges, as well as the school, one that embodies the spirit of this institution,” Morrison said. This project has been in the works since being crowned in October. In hopes of spreading holiday cheer throughout the Tyler community, she organized a program to give gifts to underprivileged children this holiday season. Morrison charged students, faculty and staff to choose a child, or “angel”, from the Texas College Christmas Tree to buy presents for those who may not have anything to open on Christmas morning. In an emotional appeal, Morrison explained her passion, “I chose to do this event because I am passionate about helping everyone, especially children. The importance of this is to serve those who are less fortunate than ourselves. I believe that is our main purpose in this life.”

The event culminated with a program hosted in the McKinney Hall Connector to present the families with the gifts collected from the Texas College Family. Miss Morrison’s Tree Filled with Angels successfully served over 50 different families, providing gifts for each child.
